Learning Environment Project

Professor Mindi Reich-Shapiro

My environment fosters children's creative expression and the arts by letting them express themselves the way they are going to learn in the classroom. I'm providing my classroom to show students creative expressions and the arts. Using their imagination will help the children learn so much, using their brains to use different materials to help them pick up ideas and learn from them.

Divergent learning offers the help and support students need to take risks. I believe that the more I am with my children in the classroom the more they will show their own thoughts on what they have learned so far. Using their creativity the children can come up with plenty of ideas using the materials I have provided for the classroom. Experience and learn, communicate with each other to use their thoughts on how to be creative with the materials.

The centers I have provided in the classroom support young children development by them using these centers to learn, experience new things, use their mind to come up with new ideas. Using their Motor skills will help them use their body to move around, walking, jumping, climbing. Gross motor abilities enable a kid to pick up quality and trust in his/her body. children will be able to move around and use creativity for all the activities being presented. In art center they will be able to use their imagination, be able to draw what ever they want. In writing center they can write and learn letters, shapes and doing writing activities. In play area this is where the children can share their creativity also using their imagination by dressing up as different characters. As the children grow older they will learn how to lose cognitive development using their Brain for so many things, preschoolers till this day are using cognitive development in the classroom. The children will also use social development, language interacting with others using their imagination.

My classroom environment is designed in a way that reflects developmentally and culturally appropriate practice because all my students will be able to understand and learn about different types of cultures , that everyone is equal. In my classroom I would want everyone to show their creativity to one another , using their minds, introducing the children different activities about cultured as well. This will be a great idea for the students to interact with each other learning what languages do others speak, what music is different. This will help the children get along with each other no matter race you are, what color you are.
