TikTok gone wrong: A story of Tragedy

Mahek Bukhari and Ansreen seemed like any other loving mother and daughter duo. Mahek easily finding popularity on the social media app TikTok. Her and her mother were said to live lavish life styles. Partying, buying lavish luxury items while also nourishing a best friend like bond between the two. That all came crashing down when Ansreen affair was on the verge of being exposed by the scorn lover. Ansreen had been married to Mahek's father for years and while she knew about the affair, she and her mother did everything in their power to cover it up. She went to her daughter when Saqib threatened to expose the affair to Mahek's dad as any mother who is as close as they were would and that's where things took a turn for the worse. The two women plotted to lure Saqib to a grocery parking lot with the excuse that they'd pay him back the 3000 dollars he spent during the relationship with Ansreen. Mahek enlisted her mechanic friend who then enlisted the help of his best friend and cousin in an "effort" to protect the mother. In the early hours on the morning they execute this plan, according to them only trying to pull an ambush on Saqib. Saqib reached out to a close friend to give him a ride to meet the duo.

Unbeknownst to him, Mahek and her mother had other things in store. However, when Saqib arrived at the supermarket he reportedly had an unsettled feeling, hastily leaving the scene. Almost immediately after with the help of the 4 other men and the female cousin a chase ensued. Their cars being captured on highway security footage, the exchange becoming so intense Saqib in the passenger seat called 911. The call lasted about 5 minutes, tension so high Hashim, a kind caring man, ran red lights to escape Mahek and her mother. During the phone call you can hear the fear in both men's voice, a ghostly rem-mince of what was to come. Shortly after a passerby found the car the two men had been living in up in flames. Police arrived at once, firefighters not too far behind. When the fire died down the horrid discovery of both men's deceased bodies. Mahek and her mother were still close behind, pulling over to swap seats as on their way to retreat they drove past the wreckage. Shortly after their female compliance was caught using the same security footage that I mentioned previously. The following morning mahek and her mother were arrested at their family home and brought in for questioning. While being question mahek began to lie about the events that led up to the crash. That they had been manipulated by Saqib and tried to alter the events that led up to unfortunate murder of the two men. However, two of accomplice came toward telling the truth events that led up to the unfortunate death of Saqib and Hasim. Mahek and her mother would be prosecuted on two counts of murder, some of her TikTok's being used as evidence during the trial.
