

Thinking about Communication with Adults

Think about times when you experienced effective communication with other adults. Then think about times in which you did not experience effective communication. What factors contributed to effective or non-effective communication in each case?

An experience that involved effective communication	What made communication effective?
An experience that involved ineffective communication	What made communication ineffective?

What can you learn about these experiences to help you communicate with families in your program?