

Frankenstein

I define Frankenstein as horrible, because of the way the creator speaks about his creation. He referred to him as the fiend, as a filthy mass that moved and talked. He also mentioned to feel hatred, sickened, and horrified by the way the being looked. The being was hated and shun by everyone. Perhaps because of his physical appearance that was unusual at the time. The creator felt like a God that had the power to create a human by puzzling body parts and organs.

Until now assembling a human being is not possible yet, with the medical advancements could be possible in a far future. Only a few vital organs like the kidneys, lungs, etc., can be transplanted. Many people are born with birth defects. People with significant birth defects like anencephaly usually die a few minutes, hours, days or weeks after born. It would be amazing that doctors can fix birth defects.

Human beings born with a defects or disabilities sometimes face bullying. Some people call them names, stare at them or laugh at them just because of their appearance like the creator of Frankenstein did with his creation.
