

This article talks about one of the most important movement for women in history that was women suffrage. This article is a break down through history it talk about how Abigail adams wrote a letter to her husband who is going to attend continental congress in Philadelphia, basically saying make sure you keep women in mind and he said "The declaration wording specifies that " all men are created equal".(paragraph 1) This means how he believe that women shouldn't be taken into consideration because the declaration of indenpendences only talk about men not women. 1833 was an important event because Oberlin college gave academic degrees to three women i find this an important event because back then women didn't have a lot of access to education. Women were not allowed to participate in conventions or anti-slavery organization because they were women. More changes came after that women were now being able to work 10 hours a day and it was the first permanent labor associations for working women in the united states. This was a major improvement toward women right because women are being able to work and change the way women are being look at. Throught history women had been told to stay home and take care of the children and the men are the one in charged for providing for the family and i believe is important for women to work because it give them some type of indenpency and power. Susan B.

Anthony is considered one of the most known leader of the women suffrage movement she fought for women right to vote and for equal pay in the work force. Something major happen when she was arrested for trying to vote and the court convit her of voting illegally. Overall many women were involved when it come to making changes for women rights and demanding equal rights for women and each one of them accomplished something meaningful to history that led to the women rights act and being able to vote. "The untold stories of black women in the suffrage movement" basically talks about how black women were having a difficult time during the suffrage movement because in some way they were still being excluded even though they were all fighting for the same thing that it was women right to vote. Two well known balck women during women suffrage were Ida b wells and Anna Julia cooper. Ida b wells became the most famous black women in the united states because she was always fighting for women rights. She did many important things like flight against jim crow laws that was preventing black men at the time from voting. A white mob set fire to her newspaper because she used to talk about white people lynching black people. In 1896 they founded the national association of colored. Susan B Anthony fought foer women right to vote but at the same time she made comment that were considered racist like saying " i will cut off this right arm of mine before i will ever work or demand the ballot for the negro and not the women". This shows how she believe that white women deserve more the right to vote than black men. Women from all around the united states traveled to Washington DC to participate in the march, they allowed african american women to participate in the march but they had to stay in the back but Ida b well didn't agree with the decision and when the march started she was the back and then she maved to the front because she believe that they was no difference between her and the other white women. Women suffrage movement was a major event for women in history because it gave them the opportunity to women to vote.
