

Learning Environment Essay

The value of early childhood education has been providing a strong basis for young kids to build in the classroom for their next ages except for education, students establish a positive understanding of themselves and their own families to understand that their activities can lend a hand to make the world better, regardless how tiny they are. Activity encourages the children to utilize their ideas, ability, and physical, emotional, and behavioral energy with enhancing their creativity and imagination. For good language development, entertainment is crucial. Children are involved but also adapt to the environment surrounding each other as early as childhood during playtime. According to Basics of Developmentally Appropriate Practice, which talks about an introduction for teachers of children. It states that “Good classroom teachers continually observe children’s play and their interaction with the physical environment and with other children to learn about each child’s interests, abilities, and developmental progress” (4). This means that the children’s play not only helps the students but also the teachers, helping them understand their students better and that will develop how a classroom will be because now they have known their students and they have their teaching techniques that create a good classroom. The valuable tool that supports all these ideas is communication tools because the students need to communicate with others that is how they develop and become more social, and I believe by communicating with others you learn more about each other. It is important to give a student an assessment but in my way of thinking it should be more fun because that will make the student excited to do it because if it is just a regular boring assignment, they are not just going to do it to learn they do it because they were told so by their teachers.

First, I would like to create a classroom environment for my students so we have that routine and by creating I would let students get to know me better because we must understand each other. I think that will develop a good relationship between the teacher and student. My classroom environment will be fun and energetic. I would like to greet my students at the door every day and make them feel wanted to be in my classroom, not because they just must. This illustrates that I care about the students and want them to come in a positive environment. One of the main elements affecting or influencing student learning in the classroom environment and that is why I want mine to be positive. A good school atmosphere contributes to improving interest, positively influencing, and encouraging student behavioral and emotional stability. Once teachers develop a good learning environment, students tend to be motivated as often and achieve remarkable success. Children benefit from artful creativity because it allows them to communicate their ideas and experiences. As stated in Art Activity: Class-Self Portrait Quilt It shows us how activities can be especially important and it shows how it is okay to be different, “There are many kinds of activities in an early childhood classroom. These activities support the students in learning through discovery”. This means creating various kinds of activities develops healthy behaviors and encourages a comprehensive and integrated approach to regular activity and experience the major characteristics in early childhood and even in the purpose of enjoyment for children. Encouraging Students to Embrace Creativity– the resources I've supplied create possibilities for divergent (open ended) learning. Educators encourage kids to think differently by giving them time to free write, utilize diverse materials to make products, and design new activities.

Encouraging children to try is important and ensuring that children can replicate their lessons gives the children a chance to form their talents. If I have diverse students, it will be nice learning about each other's cultures and sharing. Classroom Community Considers the resources provided on culturally responsive teaching, in my classroom, I would like to have negativity where I would name its diversity, and to make it fun I would make students talk about their culture also to bring an object of their choice that represents them or their traditions or that they like. It is good that we learn about each other because we will be in the same classroom for a long time, and we must know and understand each one of our cultures.

This is an important phase in childhood even though it is where children began to learn, include classmates, teachers, and parents, and they discover how to connect with the other children and start to create passion that might stick with them to their lifetimes. The value of early childhood education is important because helping to develop and maintain better self-confidence, personality, identity, and trust in their very own skills.

Works Cited

Benavides, V., Ledda, R., Mohammed, M (2020). Never Too Young to Support a Cause: Supporting Positive Identity Development Through Social Justice Curriculum in Preschool. Young Children, December, Vol 75. (5).

Berkowitz, D. (2011). Oral Storytelling: Building Community through Dialogue, Engagement, and Problem Solving. Young Children, March 2011. Pps 36-40.

Brown, C.P., Feger, B.S., & Mowry B. (2015). Helping Others Understand Academic Rigor in Teachers' Developmentally Appropriate Practices. Young Children, September 2015. Pps. 62-69.

Cole, K. and Verwayne, D. (2018) "Becoming Upended: Teaching and Learning about Race and Racism with Young Children and Their Families." Young Children, May 2018, Vol 73 (2). Pps

Conklin, Wendy (2007). Instructional Strategies for Diverse Learners. Hunting Beach, CA:

Shell Publishing. Cooper, J (2016). Integrating Music, Drama, and Dance Helps Children

Explore and Learn. Teaching Young

Children, April/May 2016, Vol. 9 (4). Pps. 16-20.

Teachers of Children 3 to 6, 1 st Ed. Washington, DC: NAEYC.

Dyson, A. H. (1990). Symbol Makers, Symbol Weavers: How Children Link Play, Pictures & Print. Young

Children, January 1990, Vol. 45 (2). Pps 50-57.

Elkind, David Ed. (n.d.) Wisdom of Play. www.communityplaytings.com

Isbell, R. & Yoshizawa S.A. (2016). Nurturing Creativity: An Essential Mindset for Young Children's Learning, Washington, DC: NAEYC.

Kemple, K. M., Batey, J. J., & Hartle L.C. (2004) Music Play: Creating centers for musical play and exploration. Young Children, July 2004. Pps. 30 – 38.

Kozleski, E.B. (n.d.) "Culturally Responsive Teaching Matters!" Equity Alliance:

www.equityallianceatasu.org

Levinowitz, L. M. (1998). The importance of music in early childhood. General Music Today.

Reprinted from: <http://www.musictogether.com/ImportanceofMusic>