Final project part 3

"The true character of a society is revealed in how it treats its children."- Nelson Mandela. And I think we all should agree because violence is never the answer and never will. Neglecting our children or abusing them isn't either. I mean how could someone hurt THEIR own child, and for what? No honestly why would you hurt them? Aren't we supposed to be their safe place? We should be taking care of them; it is our job after all. And child abuse isn't just hurting them physically but mentally, and emotionally too. For example, yelling at them for no reason at all, making them feel scared, or taking out anger on them to feel better because of stupid reason that you know they didn't mean to do, or even if they did, yelling at them isn't a solution. If you want to teach them or make them learn from their mistakes you should sit them down and talk it out. It is the best way. Also, if YOU take your anger out on them for your own satisfaction is sick and I suggest that you should get help. And remember abuse will ruin their future, either they will act upon it and do it to their own kids, or even worse they might hurt THEMSELVES, and remember that children who are abused and neglected may suffer immediate physical injuries such as cuts, bruises, or broken bones, as well as emotional and psychological problems, such as impaired social-emotional skills or anxiety. Please don't blame it on them. They are kids after all. So please never refer to abuse as an answer or remedy. After all, please note that child abuse can lead to a conviction will result in fines and up to one year in jail.
