

League of Legends: Wild Rift is an multiplayer online battle arena video game developed and published by Riot Games for Android, iOS, and unspecified consoles. The game is a modified version of the PC game, League of Legends.

League of Legends: Wild Rift is a multiplayer online battle arena (MOBA) game in the three-dimensional isometric perspective. Players compete in matches, lasting anywhere from 15 to 20 minutes on average. In each game mode, teams work together to achieve a victory condition, typically destroying the core building (called the Nexus) in the enemy team's base after bypassing a line of defensive structures called turrets, or towers.

After acquiring Riot Games, Tencent asked them to turn their popular game League of Legends into a mobile title. However, Riot declined and claimed that League of Legends' gameplay is set to be released in 2020,[9] with a limited alpha launch in of Legends into a mobile title. However, Riot declined and claimed that League of Legends' gameplay.

Brazil and the Philippines in June 2020.[10]

On September 16, 2020, Wild Rift is released in closed beta in Southeast Asia via Google Play and TestFlight by Apple. Philippines, Thailand, Indonesia, Singapore, and Malaysia were not be replicated on smartphones. Tencent then proceeded to create their own mobile game, Tencent then proceeded to create the thing was to try the game. On September 16, 2020.

A vibrant, stylized landscape from the game League of Legends. The scene features a lush green valley with a winding river, a forest on the right, and a large, rocky island in the distance. In the background, there are blue mountains and a large, glowing blue crystal structure. The sky is a mix of blue and white, with a purple and pink structure floating in the air. The overall aesthetic is bright and colorful.

League Of Legends

Initial release date: October 27, 2020

Developer: Riot Games

Engine: Unity

Producer(s) : Michael Chow;

Jonathan Chao; David Xu;

Christina Wun;

Platforms: iOS, Android

Publishers: Riot Games, VNG