

Character Interview

Q: What is your name?

A: My name is Nanda Donne

Q: Describe yourself in three words.

A: Determined, compassionate, and introverted.

Q: How would the other characters in the story describe you?

A: Reserved, dedicated, and tenacious

Q: What are you trying to accomplish in the story that I am writing about you?

A: I am trying to expose a corrupt corporation that is harming the environment.

Q: What plan have you created to achieve your goal?

A: My plan is to infiltrate the corporation as an employee, gathering incriminating evidence, and then working with a group of environmental activists to release this information to the media.

Q: Why is someone trying to stop you from achieving your goal?

A: The corporation's CEO sees Nanda as a threat to the company's reputation and financial interests.

Q: What will happen if you don't achieve your goal?

A: The corporation will continue their harmful practices unabated, leading to further environmental damage and potential health risks to the local community.

Q: How would you feel about that outcome?

A: I would feel deeply disappointed and frustrated if I couldn't achieve my goal. I am passionate about environmental issues and I am committed to making a positive change. Not succeeding would be a significant personal and moral letdown for me.

Q: Will that feeling affect your choices and actions in the story?

A: Yes. My strong emotional attachment to my goal and the potential negative consequences of failure will drive me to make bold choices and actions. It will motivate me to take risks and persist in the face of adversity

Q: How does this story represent a pivotal moment in your life?

A: This moment tests my determination and values. It's the moment when I transition from being an ordinary person concerned about the environment to becoming a committed activist, willing to risk everything to make a difference. It's a turning point that will shape my future and my place in the world.
