Pasha S.

In the year of 2020, I took a BMCC class about graphic design. In this class I learend about different design elements, how to be creative and how to use software like Adobe Illustrator, InDesign and Photoshop. These are some of the samples of the work that I did for this class.

This is the final project that we had to create. It is a poster of our selves in a specific design type.
I chose Russian Constructivism for my deisgn. This is a poster for the SAM New Voices Exhibit .
I used the colors of russian constructivism to try and recreate that style as close as possible.

COLOR WHEEL

In here, we were supposed to create a color wheel in order to show our understanding of color pallets and what colors go together.

VISUAL HIERARCHY

In this project were were supposed to create a poster for an exhibit, it was supposed to have visual heirarchy elements in it

CITY POSTER

In this project we were supposed to create a unique poster of a city. This is LA Califronia. We used different tools like the pen tool in adobe illustrator to make shapes and outline parts of the city.

FAILED ATTEMPT 1

These are some of my failed attempts. To the left does not have a title because it would not look nice, too much is going on in this and it is asimetrical.

To the right is fine but I felt like the background is too plain. It had no movement to it. I decided to add some shapes of different colors to it so that it gets more colorful and interesting.
