Once upon a time there were two sisters, Ana and Gaia. They did everything together!

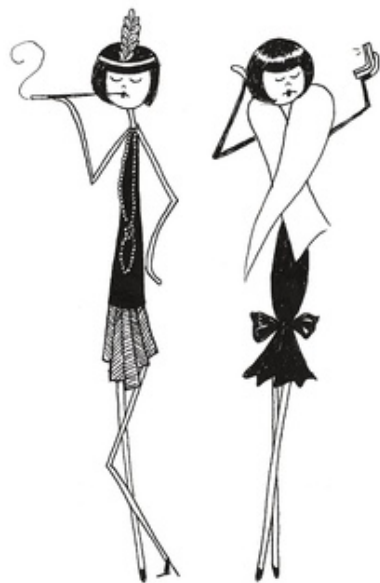

They both shared a deep love for music. They enjoyed making up songs and silly dance moves.

Their big dream was to one day be part of a band
with other sisters!

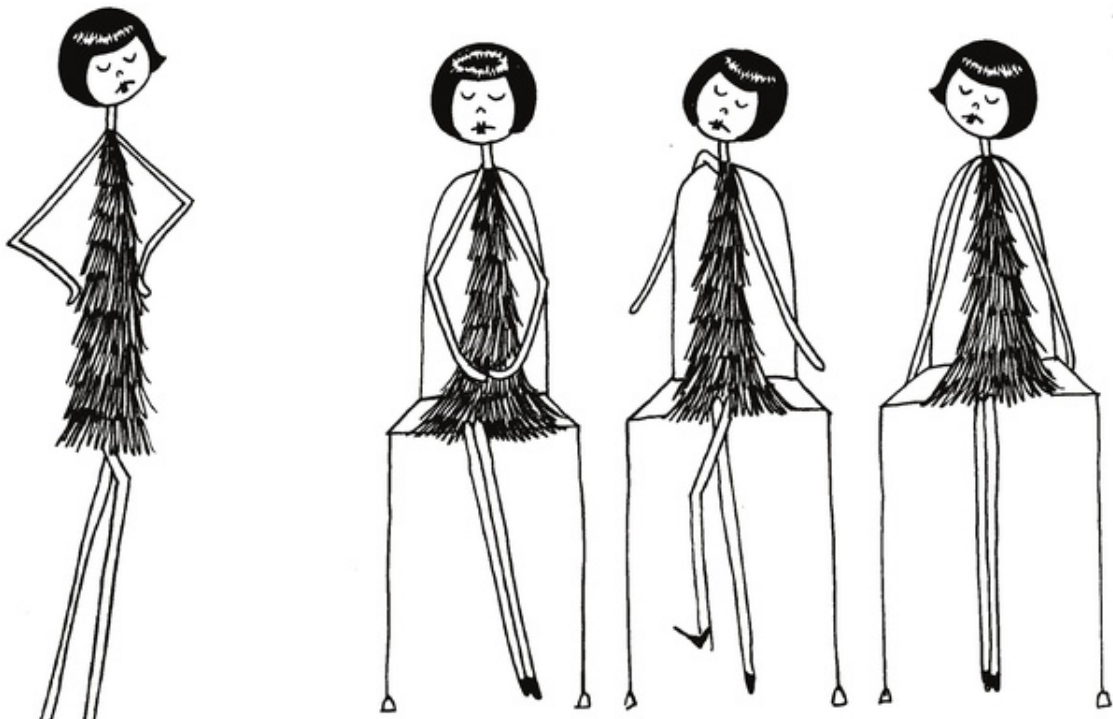

On the other side of town lived two sisters,
Mia and Emma, that shared the same dream of one day being part of a sister band...

On Halloween night the two sets of sisters crossed paths while trick or treating in the town center. Ana and Gaia noticed Mia and Emma's singing and thought about asking them to join their band.

Mia and Emma couldn't believe they had found two other sisters that shared their same dream. They immediately said yes and joined the band!

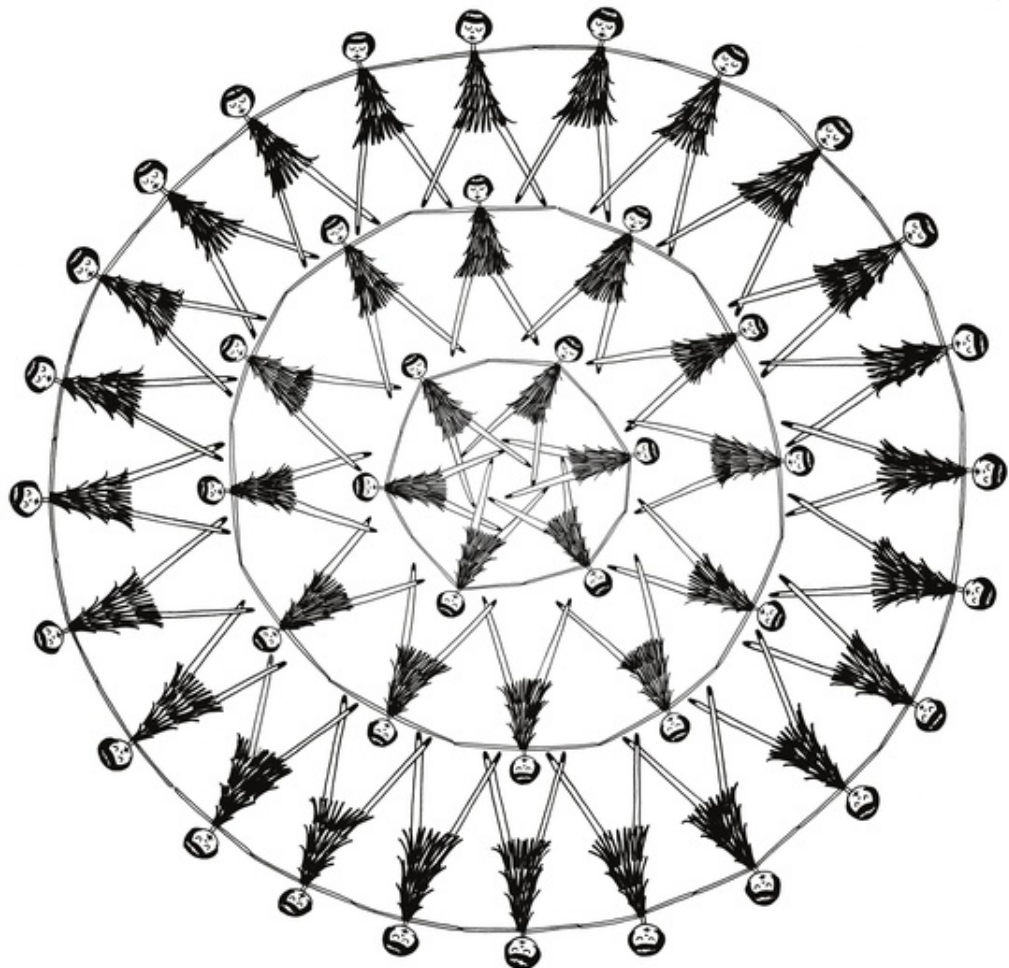

Once they got together they tried different styles to see which one fit them best. They soon realized that although they were all different...

...they had more things in common. Once they found their sound and style, they knew they belonged together!

It was finally time for their first show! Mia looked out to the crowd and got so nervous she felt like maybe she couldn't do it.

Emma, Ana, and Gaia reminded Mia of their shared dream.

Mia took a moment to calm down. She remembered what her grownups would always say to her, "sisters that dream together, stay together"...

The Sister Band played a great first show and went on to play many more shows together!
